Item V

1. The following documents are considered:

D1: US-A-5 419 283
D2: FR-A-2 705 864
D3: WO 00/13521 A

2. Article 33(2) PCT

None of the above cited documents disclose a chewable toy for animals, comprising 5-30 parts of isomalt and 0.5-5 parts of garlic. Thus, present claims 1-13 meet the novelty requirements.

3. Article 33(3) PCT

In view of the technical problem to be solved (to provide a chewable toy which can be used to correct incorrect dietary habits of pets, prevent damaging of teeth and development of bacteria) and its unexpected solution (the composition comprising isomalt and garlic added to a starch material), the subject-matter of present claims can be regarded as involving an inventive step (Article 33(3) PCT) over any combination of the cited prior art.

4. Article 33(4) PCT

The subject-matter of present claims 1-13 meet the requirements of Article 33(4) PCT.

5. Further comments

- a. The vague and imprecise statement in the description on page 7 (last paragraph: "Naturally ... its scope.") implies that the subject-matter for which protection is sought may be different to that defined by the claims, thereby resulting in lack of clarity of the claims (Article 6 PCT) when used to interpret them.
- c. The expression "incorporated by reference" as used in the present description when referring to the prior art should be deleted (Article 6 PCT).
